WEDNESDAY, MAY 25 | 6:00 PM

LEHMAN
COLLEGE

Message from the President

Fernando Delgado,
President

Welcome to Commencement week and our first in-person Honors Convocation in a few years. It is also my first as Lehman College President, so in a sense, we are all in this together.

In any year, the distinction of being an Honors graduate is significant. But given the state of the world, and all that we have been through, it is that much more impressive. You are part of a cohort of high achieving graduates who have met the demands of academia – of juggling those demands with taking care of your families, working, navigating a global pandemic that drags on and much more – with grace and perseverance.

You are here for this event because you are distinguished not only by your grit, but also by managing to excel. And it is that excellence that we are gathered here tonight to lift up and celebrate. Tonight, as a campus community, we get to share in the pride of your accomplishments. Pride that you should have in yourself and all those who have supported you in your hard work to get here.

Whether it has taken four years or longer than you expected, every moment on your journey is a major feat; one that is not undertaken by the faint of heart – especially not in these days and times.

As a first-generation college student, who has had the privilege of being well-mentored and supported throughout my journey, I see some of myself in all of you. It makes me that much prouder of what all students at Lehman College have achieved, especially in the face of daunting circumstances.

Your class is a special one, advancing in your studies during such a pivotal and transitional time for the nation. Seize this fluid time in history to explore the paths that feel best for you.

While I know hearing about the new normal makes it tempting to slip back into old ways that may not have been the best ways to begin with, see if you can't take some of what you have learned over the past year to enrich your life going forward.

Congratulations again. Thank you for welcoming me to Lehman College and getting to witness a significant moment in your academic and personal journey. Here's to many more to come.

Message from the Provost

Peter O. Nwosu,
Provost and Senior
Vice President for Academic Affairs and Student Success

I have looked forward to this day, when you, our best and brightest Lehman students, can once again gather to celebrate your accomplishments. It is a true delight to welcome you in person, see your smiling faces, and share your excitement.

Today I applaud your excellence—the academic honors for which you have worked so hard, and that other kind of excellence, one forged through struggle, commitment, and perseverance. Academic excellence is something to take great pride in, and I am sure you do. But unlike academic honors, the other kind doesn't get recorded on a transcript or inscribed on a diploma. However, it is just as real, and just as great an achievement.

Some of you have spent perhaps half of your Lehman education as remote learners; and for some of you, the in-person experience at Lehman has been even briefer.

There was no blueprint for college education in a pandemic. You, like all of us, had to figure things out as you went along. Yet you adapted, you succeeded, and you're graduating with honors. How did you do it?

In Shakespeare's Hamlet, there's a well-worn bit of advice, and it's a graduation standard: Polonius counsels Hamlet "to thine own self be true." Let your core values guide you. It would be a cliché if it weren't so fitting for this moment. But you are each an example of what that means. In the midst of the uncertainty, anxiety, and even tragedy so many of you have faced in the past two years, you remained committed to yourselves—to your values and dreams, and you let those guide you. The most precious knowledge of all is self-understanding, and it's one of many things that cannot be learned over Zoom.

In this regard, your achievement extends far beyond your hard-won academic success. It is a testament to your character, your strength, and your self-knowledge. This is a true badge of honor, and I hope you will wear it proudly for years to come. Congratulations.

A Celebration of Accomplishment

Welcome to the 14th Annual Honors Convocation at Lehman College, where the President, Provost, Deans, faculty, family, and friends celebrate the accomplishments of students graduating with summa cum laude, magna cum laude, and cum laude College honors. This year, in addition to remarks by the President and Provost, we are honored to have speeches by the Teacher of the Year, the Adjunct of the Year, Student Speakers, and the SGA President. In addition, we will be presenting awards for Excellence in Undergraduate Studies, Global Citizenship, Excellence in Leadership, and Outstanding Academic Achievement (4.0). The Convocation culminates with the presenting of the Honors Cords, as students come to the stage to be corded by a Lehman Dean.

The 2022 Honors Convocation commemorates the success of Lehman College Honors students and as a keepsake for years to come. It includes the written remarks of all the speakers and the names of the 2022 Honors students with their photos, plans, and shoutouts. It represents educational achievement, dedication, and gratitude.

Congratulations to all our honors students and a special thanks to all the faculty, family, and friends who have supported them in the attainment of Latin honors.

Teacher of the Year

Department of History,
School of Arts and Humanities

We are gathered here this evening to celebrate a new rite of passage as you, the distinguished Class of 2022, are about to be recognized for your substantial academic achievements. The Cord, which you will affix to your regalia on the morrow, reflects four years of arduous service, unsurpassed in diligence and perseverance. It will perpetually connect you to a College which has done much for you, so that you, in turn, can do much for others. You have aptly embraced the curriculum in your respective disciplines these past few years and have risen above the challenge, soaring to the heights of academic excellence. These “mystic cords of memory” will tether you to your careers in teaching, government, natural and social sciences, business, medicine, nursing, social work, and the arts, to name but a few. Above all, they will connect you with your service to humanity.

Honor is one of the most sublime words in any language. But with honor comes responsibility and service to others. The academic excellence you have achieved will arm you to combat the evils inherent in social injustice, economic adversity, political malfeasance, and a whole host of societal ills. But you are never alone—your families, friends and neighbors; your colleagues, teachers, and mentors, all march alongside you as you “go forth, and give us victories.”

Congratulations for what you are about to receive.

Adjunct of the Year

Psychology,
School of Natural and Social Sciences

Ten years ago, I too was graduating from a CUNY college. As an immigrant student, who struggled with English and, at first, could barely navigate the mazes of NYC's subways, earning a college degree signified a moment of pride and hope for me and my family. In my five years of teaching at Lehman College, I have met many students who walked a similar path and even more whose paths did not fit a familiar narrative.

As a teacher at Lehman, I have been endlessly motivated, inspired, and gratified by my students' perseverance and relentless pursuit of excellence. You, Lehman students, have inspired me to be a better teacher. I am honored and humbled to share this moment with you and your families. As lonely as it may seem at times, the journey to a college degree is filled with the support of family members, friends, colleagues, teachers, mentors, advisors, administrators, and random strangers who give us hope, who support us during moments of setbacks, who believe in us more than we believe in ourselves, and who motivate us to fight and move forward.

I can't possibly convey in this short speech how enormously proud I am of every single one of you. Those long nights of studying after work, those crushing moments of disappointment when what you studied wasn't even on the exam, those gratifying moments of succeeding were all worth it; they brought you here. This is your moment! And I want you to make the best of it! There is a bright future ahead of you, a future built on your hard work, the support of your families, and a little bit of luck. I wish all of you the absolute best in your future endeavors. Congratulations Everyone! You made it!

Latin Honors at Lehman College

College honors or “Latin honors” represent exceptionally high academic achievements, with the use of Latin providing a sense of ancient tradition and authority. In the United States, Latin honors are specifically for bachelors’ degrees.

At Lehman, these honors are distinguished by the Latin phrases:

Cum laude, “with praise,” awarded to students with a GPA of 3.5-3.74

Magna cum laude, “with great praise,” awarded to students with a GPA of 3.75-3.84

Summa cum laude, “with highest praise,” awarded to students with a GPA of 3.85-4.0

These are prestigious accomplishments, and represent not only past achievements, but the potential for tremendous future success.

Latin Honors Cords Colors and Meanings

At Lehman College, the modern tradition of honors cords’ three different colors represent the three levels of Latin honors:

I am so honored to be standing in front of all you beautiful, bright individuals. Sometimes I cannot believe I am here. My first few days at Lehman started off running to orientation in pajamas and my picked out curly hair- you should see my ID picture. I will never forget that day, entering so wide-eyed and in awe of how big everything was to me. Being at Lehman has taught me so many lessons:

L -To LOVE myself because I belong here regardless of what society has to say about my ethnicity

E- To EMBRACE the challenges that may not align with my plans-there have been many of those.

H- HUMILITY because as much as I like to believe I can do anything on my own – I can't, I wouldn't be standing here with all of you if it weren't for the help of my family encouraging me every step of the way.

M-MATURITY to laugh at myself and the mistakes I have made

A – To be my AUTHENTIC self: a proud Latina, mother of two and now a Lehman Honors graduate

N- To NURTURE my aspirations and dreams no matter how small they are

LEHMAN!

You are the definition of unwavering resilience and as our educators, doctors, artists, and so much more, I ask of you to continue to shape our communities with strength, passion, and love. As Sia sings, “[You are] unstoppable...a Porsche with no breaks... Invincible...Win every single game...[You are] so powerful [you] don't need batteries to play”

Keynote Student Speaker Remarks

Mary Morfe

School of Health Sciences, Human Services, and Nursing
Dietetics, Foods, and Nutrition

Good evening, President Delgado, Provost Nwosu, Vice President Wright, Deans and all honorable and distinguished guests as well as the graduating Class of 2022. It is a great honor to stand before you today. My name is Mary Morfe, I am a 51-year-old student Nutrition major who decided to return to college after 18 years. I must admit that my experience at Lehman College has been nothing short of blissful. The opportunity to study here with you has molded my character into who I am today. I was hesitant to become a student speaker tonight as English is my second language and a barrier I had to overcome.

My journey to Lehman began from when I was in my native country The Dominican Republic, in pursuit of my American Dream to attend college. I challenged my dream, and today I am reaping the fruits of my academic labor. Therefore, as I echo the words of the great Nelson Mandela, "Education is the most powerful weapon you can use to change the world".

Fellow graduates, life has taught me many lessons. I have always believed that the United States was built on the sweat of its citizens and education is one of its main pillars. I can testify that education is the great equalizer. It provides an opportunity to the children of immigrants to sit at the same table with the children of professional men and women. Let's observe who we are sitting next to at this special moment today. We are all part of a dream come true. We have learned of humility, belonging and respect with which our teachers guided us towards this precious moment.

I want to thank God for always being by my side guiding me in the right direction. Thanks to my family, friends, and professors. Special thanks to the Disability Services of BCC and Lehman, The CUNY Coalition for Students with Disabilities, and The Office of Campus Life. Thanks to Lehman College for giving me the opportunity to be a part of this beautiful educational journey.

As I conclude, the Lehman College experience has provided me with a chance to meet an amazing group of people with whom I will be forever grateful. Therefore, as you go out to the real world, always remember the words of Martin Luther King Jr.: If you can't fly, then run. If you can't run then walk. If you can't walk, then crawl. But whatever you do, you have to keep moving forward.

Congratulations Class 2022!

Student Government President

Emile Giovannie Helios Zounon
School of Natural and Social Sciences
Computer Information Systems

President Delgado, Cabinet Members, distinguished guests, Faculty, Staff, and honors students of 2022. Good evening.

It took me seven years to obtain my bachelor's degree. You may look at my young face and wonder how and why? I got my high school diploma in 2015 in the Benin Republic, my home country. I started college in January 2016 and obtained an Associate degree in 2017. In 2019, I was about to get my Bachelor's degree when I got a U.S. visa. I had to leave two months before the degree conferral. Once here, the admissions office decided to give me 49 credits. I was back in school as a sophomore. Tomorrow, at commencement, I am finally obtaining my bachelor's degree with the highest honor, Summa Cum Laude. I am part of two honors societies: Pi Delta Phi and Phi Beta Kappa. I am the Student Government President for this year.

I am addressing you this evening in my role as Student President, and I am asking you to be Resilient. According to the dictionary, resiliency means a person's ability to adjust or recover readily from illness, adversity, or significant life changes. Resiliency is YOU. Resiliency is the student body at Lehman College.

As SGA President, I led an extraordinary team of 12 Executives and 33 Senators. Together we worked on making your college experience the best. In the grand design of Lehman College, we were the students discussing in the Lehman senate chambers class size, school policies, and academic integrity. We were the people having conversations with IT and the library to extend the hours of operation. Two years after a pandemic, we were the team that brought back the biggest spring festival in CUNY. We experienced discomfort by doing our work, but we kept the momentum because we were resilient.

Fellow students - by receiving these honors, we have demonstrated extraordinary resilience. We will prove to your future employers that we are not ordinary candidates. We are the perfect candidates for the opportunity because we have shown grit towards obtaining a degree with great distinction by maintaining a balanced lifestyle amidst a pandemic, a war, and an Oscar slap.

Being an honor student means being resilient. That resiliency is opening us the doors of privilege, power, and success. Today, on Lehman grounds, on the traditional land of the Lenni Lenape, we are reaping the rewards of our resilience: we are honored cum laude, magna cum laude, and summa cum laude.

Undergraduate Awards

Award for Excellence in Undergraduate Studies

2022 Winner: Isaias E Morales

Isaias E Morales is the Assistant Director for the devised multimedia performance iPa'lante! – He was selected for this position because of his commitment and artistic work and his work on the New Voices Student Play Festival.

He collaborates with and supports his peers, giving thoughtful feedback and assisting on production crew. Isaias is always one of the first to volunteer to assist peers with their multimedia setup as the senior students (himself included) prepare for their Multimedia Performing Arts Showcase in May 2022.

This award is given to a student who has demonstrated excellence in being educated, empowered and engaged in their academic studies. The recipient has demonstrated outstanding academic achievement by graduating summa cum laude with a 4.0 GPA, and also has excelled in disciplinary and/or co-curricular activities related to their major, thus modeling excellence as an empowered young scholar who shows engagement in their discipline.

The Global Citizenship Award

2022 Winner: Daniel Santiago

Daniel Santiago has exemplified global citizenship and service during his time at Lehman College. He has volunteered locally with organizations such as the Acacia Network, one of the leading social services organizations in New York City. Daniel has also traveled abroad to complete service projects in Puerto Rico. His passion to engage with communities across the globe inspired him to advise Lehman students on global engagement opportunities including study abroad. He is graduating with honors (Cum Laude) and is an Air Force ROTC cadet.

This award is given to a student who has exemplified global citizenship and service during their time at Lehman College. This student has embraced unique and creative ways to engage with communities across the globe in areas including, but not limited to, study abroad, international service-learning, global studies, and Peace Corps Prep.

Excellence in Leadership Award

2022 Winner: Emile Giovannie Zounon

Mr. Emile Zounon was elected by Lehman College students to be the SGA President to represent their interests. His campaign goals included: improving access to resources, advocating for Undocumented, International and DACA students, and meeting the basic needs of students. After just few months in his term as SGA President, his commitment to these goals was evident in the programs he executed. Not only did he host various programs to raise equity awareness, but he contributed significant funding to the Lehman College Food Bank and has been meeting with Cabinet members to create scholarships for Undocumented and DACA students. He has also shown outstanding leadership in becoming a mentor with the Center for Student Leadership Development while maintaining a busy schedule as SGA President.

This award recognizes a student who has shown outstanding leadership during his or her time at Lehman College. Through innovation, motivation, initiative, and perseverance, this person has demonstrated a commitment to creating positive change in our campus community.

Outstanding Academic Achievement (4.0)

A certificate is given to each student with a perfect 4.0 GPA.
